Title of article:	Grade 2 unit on Weather
Tags/key words (max 5)	Digital technology, grade 2, library, technology, unit of inquiry
Summary (max 50 words):	A school has created a video to illustrate how the school collaborated to develop the Grade 2 unit of inquiry on Weather.
Content:	The goal in creating this video about the Grade 2 Weather unit of inquiry is to inform the parents and the great community of the Washington International School Primary Division as to how a PYP unit of inquiry is collaboratively developed. It was also aimed to further understanding of how our combined library and instructional technology partnership supports inquiry, while empowering students to use digital technology to share their understanding. Another important aspect of this video is the cross-disciplinary learning taking place including art, science, math and language arts. https://youtu.be/V6zEsk9zpfY
Short author's blurb:	David Carpenter is the Instructional Technologist for the Washington International Primary School, USA. David is an international educator having taught in Europe, the Middle East, Asia, Africa and Latin America. David enjoys co-teaching the Information and Communication Literacies (ICL) curriculum with the school librarians while also collaborating with teachers to design units of inquiry. Another passion is connecting to the greater learning community through his Lessons Learned blog and his co-hosting of the Ed Tech Co-Op podcast.
