

Photo Release Form

The SharingPYP practice blog adds to the increasing number of curriculum support materials provided to interested, candidate and authorized PYP schools. The blog aggregates articles, posts, videos, images, and comments from newsletters and websites already published and shared by PYP schools, teachers, associations and networks.

In order to reproduce any photographs that appeared in the original article, the IB needs to ensure it has the permission of both the copyright holder of the photograph (usually the photographer) and any persons within the photograph.

Description of the photographs:

Any photographs of the names students and teachers participating in PYP classroom activities at the school.

People shown in the photograph:

N.B: Where a person shown is a minor, the consent must be obtained from their parent or guardian.

By way of the signature below, I agree that my image in the above described photographs can be used by the International Baccalaureate Organization (IB) on the website of the SharingPYP practice blog.
